

(上接D15版)

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, likely representing different categories of companies or funds. Each row contains detailed information including company names in Chinese and English, stock codes, and various financial metrics.