

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header like '(上续D21版)'. Each row contains detailed information including codes, names, and numerical values.