

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and codes. The table is organized into several sections, with the first section labeled '(上接D1版)'. It lists various financial products and their associated companies and values.