

Table with multiple columns containing financial data for various companies, including names, revenue, profit, and other metrics. The table is organized into several sections, with some rows highlighted in grey. It includes a large table on the left and several smaller tables on the right, all containing detailed financial information.