

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header row (e.g., (上接C7版) or (下接C9版)). Each row typically contains a numerical ID, a company name, a brief description of the product or fund, and several columns of numerical values representing financial metrics.