

Table with columns for company name, address, and other details. The table is organized into sections, with the first section labeled '(上接C19版)'. It contains a large number of rows, each representing a different company or entity, with columns for name, address, and other identifying information.