

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header row (e.g., '(上接C1版)'). Each row contains numerical values, company names, and dates, representing financial disclosures for various entities.