

Table with multiple columns containing company names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header row (e.g., (上接C7版) or (下接C9版)). Each row contains a small number, a company name, a code, and numerical values. The table is dense and covers the majority of the page.