

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, likely representing different categories of securities or companies. Each row contains detailed information such as codes, names, and numerical values.