

Table with columns for company name, stock code, and financial data. The table is organized into multiple sections, with the first section labeled '(上接 C41 版)'. It contains a large volume of data rows, each representing a company's financial information.