

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and numerical values. The table is organized into several vertical sections, likely representing different categories of financial information or company listings.