

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, each starting with a header like '(上接C16版)'. Each row contains detailed information including company names, codes, and financial figures.