

(上接C26版)

Table with multiple columns containing fund names, codes, and financial data. The table is organized into two main sections: the top section lists various equity and bond funds, while the bottom section lists money market funds. Each row includes a fund name, a unique identifier, and several numerical values representing performance metrics.