

(上接C14版)

Table with multiple columns containing financial data, company names, and dates. The table is organized into several vertical sections, likely representing different categories of disclosures or companies. Each row contains detailed information including company names, codes, and various financial metrics.

(下转C16版)